

I think the present banning of cross-ownership of media is appropriate, and works well in our system. Historically, our country has stood for promoting diversity, independence of expression, and freedom of speech. These rights would be compromised if the FCC's policies were to change.